2018 MARK OF EXCELLENCE YEARBOOK & ADVISER AWARDS CEREMONY

Student Life Spread

Student Life Spread 3rd Place

The Raider Warren East High School

Student Life Spread 2nd Place

The Crimson
DuPont Manual High School

Student Life Spread 1st Place

The Chronicle
South Warren High School

Sports Spread

Sports Spread 3rd Place

The Crimson
DuPont Manual High School

We Got the NUT

Evansville, Indiana, home of the West Side rivalry. Aside from the Fall Festival, the football game between the Reitz Panthers and why the game is so intense," said senior rowdy leader Claire the Mater Dei Wildcats is one of the most anticipated events put on O'Reilly. "As far as traditions go as Rowdies, the past few years by the West Side Nut Club.

Every year, the two West Side High Schools battle for "The Nut" in the Reitz Bowl. The past two years, The Panthers have brought the trophy home. Reitz fended off a comeback effort by Mater Dei just one football game. to win this year's game, 49-46.

all four years and has participated in the Battle of the West Side the be able to beat them in every sport because or how strong the

"It's always a blessing to be a part of something bigger than yourself," Dunham said. "The hype is unreal, and it will be one of the things that I miss the most."

The pressure of being the West Side Champions falls not only on the boys in blue, but the whole Reitz Nation.

"The West Side is so supportive of both schools, so that is have been too dull in the student section, and we needed to bring the hype back for the support of our team."

The rivalry between Reitz and Mater Dei runs deeper than

"Being a senior soccer player and cheerleader, the rivalry is Senior Isaiah Dunham has been a big part of the football team even more important," said senior Taylor Schapker. "You want to tradition of the rivalry has always been, and your class always wants to leave the legacy of beating Mater Dei."

> It may seem as though the city is separated by this tradition, but the rivalry is a friendly competition that brings the whole West Side together. But, at the end of the day, "WE GOT

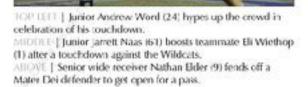

Walsworth

GHT | Junior quarterback Eli Wiethop (1) throws downfield with the help of senior Da'Ziaun Sargent (10) blocking a Mater Dei player. RIGHT | Senior Da'Ziaun Sargent (10) breaks off for a big run against Mater Dei with senior running back Noah Jones (26) blocking. Surgect scored three touchdowns that night. Jones, who also played middle linebacker, had a total of 36 sclo tackles, including even against the rival school.

PHOTOS | MACY SNODGRASS & PRESLEIGH BAGGETT STORY | MACY SNODGRASS DESIGN | MACY SNODGRASS & KINZIE WILLIAMS

Battle for "The Nut" | 9

Sports Spread

2nd Place

Reflections F.J. Reitz High School

The football team wins the rematch against the Purples, claiming the Regional Championship

October 20, the long-awaited matchup between the Purples Spartans finally came to life. To compete for the District teams went head to head for the first time in school history. ave] always thought we were the better team, but we just rove it," said Jacob Lacey, 11.

spirits still shined, knowing that the game wasn't an of the rest of their season and the playoffs.

aid to myself and to the others that we will beat them when come around, but until then we need to focus on getting to m again." said Alex Cohron, 12.

next time the teams competed against each other was on per 17, and this time it mattered. The teams would compete Regional Championship and determine who moves forward layoffs.

second time we prepared with the mindset to not accept a id Dalton Byrd, 12. "It was the sharpest week of practice team ended the Purples' streak and pressured the pack like no other team had before. Led by senior running pristian Winn's three touchdowns, the Spartans pulled off the rin in the Class 5A Region 1 final. Not only did the offense team to score, but the defense proved itself by intercepting green's quarterback three times after he entered the game to interceptions.

final meeting between the two proved the resilience and ion of the Spartans. For the first ace 2010, the Purples had been by a Warren County team. e tides of athletic dominance [are] in Warren County," said Cohron. vith the old and in with the new."

> 1. Following a chant from the team, Coach Brandon Smith congratulates them for their 28-21 win over Bowling

2. Clayton Bush, 11, eyes the end zone following a pass from junior quarterback Gavin Spurrier.

3. Gavin Spurrier, 11, consoles a Purple player after the game.

4. To begin the game, the student section launches baby powder into the

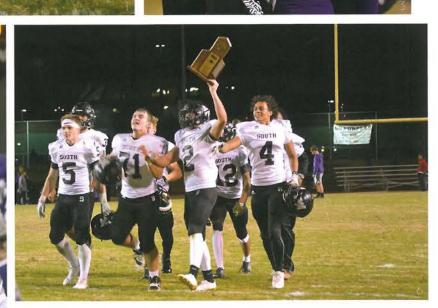

5 Seniors Kenton Blick and Christian

The Chronicle
South Warren High School

Sports Spread

1st Place

Organizations Spread

cotton candy was great, even though I was covered from head to toe!" Samantha said. Photo by Alexus Webster.

Members of the junior class steering committee talk about plans for the future.

Sitting in the classroom, Nakiya Perry (11) and the other members decide on what topic to talk about regarding their class.

"Right now, I'm working with the prom committee to choose where we're going to have our junior and senior prom at along with figuring out budgeting, like prices for tickets," says Perry, "we're also going to meet to talk about basketball homecoming and do posters for that."

1 PAINTIN" SIGNS // McKenzee Masters (10)

and Elena Jolly (10) painting posters. "My favorite part of steering committee is seeing how amazing all our

Bollinger (11) joking around while painting signs. "Steering Committee has given me the opportunity to express my enthusiasm about Manual," Matthew said. Photo by Pieper Mallett. 3 B FOR BASKETBALL // Oliver Weber (11) and Joey Schuster (11) working on a poster for basketball homecoming. "My favorite thing about Steering Committee is that students are able to have a voice," Oliver said. Photo by Pieper Mallett

Mallett. 2 STIR IT UP // Ally 0) mixing paint to make their n. "I enjoy it because there Pieper Mallett. 3 CARRY IT OUT // Patrick Harper (10)

Members of the sophomore steering committee talk about their experience being in the club.

Winding down from Red/White week, Steering Committee 2020 focused on funding for their class and Basketball Homecoming.

"I like the leading aspect of it, and the fact that I can make decisions for the class and it's a healthy and happy enviroment," Heather Allen (10) said.

"I'm doing candy sales and it's rather interesting because there's a big debate whether or not we should sell them for $2 or $1," Elena Jolly (10) said.

> WORDS BY LISA PHAM AND STAR WATTS // DESIGN BY LISA PHAM CLUBS // LEADERSHIP // 149

Organizations Spread 3rd Place

thought that the carnival went really well and everything was cool, but I feel like the balloon dart throw was the best because I was working it!"

The Crimson DuPont Manual High School

Organizations Spread 2nd Place

The Trojan
Barren County High School

Organizations Spread 1st Place

Shamrock Trinity High School

Division Page Spread

Division Page Spread 3rd Place

The Raider Warren East High School

Division Page Spread 2nd Place

Butleraire
Butler County High School

Division Page Spread 1st Place

Shamrock Trinity High School

Academic Spread

J&C students talk about their experiences visiting the John E.

J&C students talk about their experiences visiting the John F. Kenedy Museum in Dallas Texas while on one of the magnets two annual convention trips.

This year, J&C students went to the 'Go Big' journalism convention in Dallas,TX for their annual fall field trip. A stop along the way was the Sixth Floor Museum at Dealey Plaza.
Headphones over their ears and audio devices on, students learned the history of John F. Kennedy and how journalists reported his assassination.

"Yeah, it was interesting, but it kind of raised my suspicion of the assassination. Nonetheless, it was a hallowed feeling place with a palpable history," Tyler Smith (10) said.

"I really liked the conspiracy theory part! Obviously, it's an important part of history, but I like that even the museum devoted to it has a part that acknowledges the uncertainty surrounding the event—even though the CIA probably doesn't like it," Jess Martel (12) said.

1 CONVENTION CHEER // J&C students pose outside their hotel in Dallas as they get ready for the convention to begin. "Right after we got to our hotel, we went right to a deli. We were all starving," Kathryn Minor said. Photo by Margaret Mattingly. 2 POWER POSE //

Katie Cummins, Alana Fields, Sylvia Cassidy, and Jess Martel pose for a picture as they are out and about

in the city of Dallas. "Dallas was so cool. It felt like a Twilight Zone version of Louisville," Jess Martel said.

Photo by Margaret Mattingly. 3 A MASSIVE MANTRA // Kathryn Minor and Jessica Martel pose for a picture in the basement of the convention center where colleges were set up to meet young journalists. "Everything definitely was bigger in Texas. The hotel we were staying in was massive, over 20 floors. I rode up to the very top in the glass elevator, it was kind of scary but really cool at the same time," Kathryn Minor said. Photo by Margaret Mattingly. 4 BBQ BANQUET// Jess Martel and Katie Cummins eat at a barbeque restaurant (The Pecan Lodge) that Jess found online. "We waited for 3 hours because the power went out, but the food was delicious," Jess Martel said. Photo by Margaret Mattingly. 5 DALLAS AFTER DARK // Dallas after the J&C students left the JFK museum. "It was breathtaking to see the live footage of the assasination happening and to see where it happened at the same time," Lucy Calderon said. Photo by Margaret Mattingly. 6 DOWNTOWN DALLAS // The heart of Dallas was buzzing with life on a cold November day. "I entered into the logo design competition and a lot of the same people that were there last year were there again, so we met up... I ended up winning "excellent" which is basically second place, "Kathryn Minor said. Photo by Margaret Mattingly.

J&C students discuss the magnet's mentor/mentee program where seniors help new freshman integrate into the magnet.

"It has helped me feel more comfortable in the magnet, because I knew that I had someone to talk to if I was having any trouble ... It's nice to know someone in your magnet who's been in the same place as you."

SARAH WOODSON

"[The program] helped me as a freshman to learn the ins and outs of the magnet ... As a mentor, I hope my mentee knows she can come to me for advice just as I went to mine."

CAROLINE FOSHEE

J&C freshmen work hard to design mock campaign posters, hoping to win the meaningless title of "President of J&C."

Catie Devenuto (11), the digital design aid, paced up and down the lab, helping the freshmen with their designs. Every student was creating their own campaign poster, by which they would be judged for election.

"It was cool to see what they could do when given some freedom," Catie said. The annual mock presidential election of the J&C freshman course, digital design, was in full swing last November.

"I really enjoyed the project, because it gave me an introduction to design," Sylvia Cassidy (9) said.

"It was really nice to have so much freedom with our designs," Anna Keyzer (9) said.

1 CAMPAIGN TO FAME // Jessica Carney Perks, Addy Falkner, Lainey Holland, and Sam Baker work on designing their campaign posters for the election. "[The project] was a great way for us to all get to know each other," Anna Keyzer said. Photo by Catie Devenuto. 2 FROM THE MACS OF BABES // Luke Radcliffe, Maddie Hayden, and Brooke Wathen design their poster for the J&C freshman presidential election. "This project is really going to help us as future designers because it gave us a great base of what good design looks like and how to create that," Sylvia Cassidy said. Photo by Catie Devenuto.

WORDS BY ALEXUS WEBSTER AND JESSICA BROWN // DESIGN BY JESSICA BROWN

ACADEMICS // J&C // 115

Academic Spread 3rd Place

The Crimson
DuPont Manual High School

RESEARCH REQUIRED

Seniors Tayhlor Eldridge and Jared Sloan (above)
massure their pipes in order for water to travel directly from the water hose to the plants.
Senior Tashayla Reed (top right) works in the greenhouse.
Seniors Michael Johnston and Sair Salgado (left) research plant life using a book about licross in order to identify what plant they are holding.
Junior Karen Larios Flores (far right) waters the plants in the local greenhouse outside of the school.

Junior Dylan St unacke, senior Jernifer Smith, and junior Wakeer a Aldridge listen to Mr. Hall as they look at the insulation they re-adding to the greenhouse. It's a very eye opening class where we learn things outside the classroom and do things we might do in our future," said Junior Currico Dinerrivo, seniore Nafissa Zakoria, Garnif Lawrance and Asia Sweeney work together to worker plants in the genericouse. "Being in Min. Averancia's equiron sentral isoteness clears both to light us a list about framwork. If helps our plants be more arounded and free only Juny response acid.

Freshman Jaeda Thomas gets startled offer teacher Mr. Hall shows her a chicken, Regardless, she obtains she loves the class. The aspect of nature and takes we have are all interesting to my. We taked about drugs and the impact as people and the environment and if Junior Prasta Brown lends to the plants in the green house with Mas Nemanr's environmental science class. The claims she really enjoyed this class over many other classes. The sends on which i really sejoy I low learning about the environment and this is the perfect class for flat," Brown said.

the great OULAOUS

teachers put their own twist on environmental learning

ormer Global Issues teacher Joe Franzen left Fern Creek last year in search of a new beginning in another state. This departure left the school's environmental program in search of new leadership.
Without Franzen, someone needed to step up and take care of the greenhouse, the garden, chickens and even the newly purchased bothives. Many students didn't know who would take ever and were worried the program would end permanently. Fortunately, twe teachers stepped up to the challenge. Beturning science teacher Lauren Niemann and new English teacher John Hall spent this year putting their own spin on the Fern Creek tradition of outdoor learning.

As a new teacher, Hall was surprised how much Franzen was able to accomplish. "I'm amazed that there is a garden in the first place here, especially with all the working infrastructure." Hall said. He never thought such a nice garden could be at a school. Hall taught a special writing class this year that combined the outdoors with English. His students used the garden at least once a week to complete chores, grow vegetables undtraise chickens. The students also completed writing assignments about those tasks. "By allowing students to do something they enjoy, they are more open to learning and doing their work in class," said Hall.

For the future, he even plans on starting programs to maintain a greener society. "With the help of Bellarmine University, I want to build a compost place to help recycle food in the sefeterie. This creates a circle within the school and its fellow students," Hall said.

Students in Hall's class enjoy the chance to work outside. "Inctually love this class a lot," said senior Quartus Hearr. "It's always fun to go outside and tend the garden and the chickens. We use these experiences to write our papers. That way we never had trouble writing."

Senior Jennifer Smith also enjoyed this different approach to learning. "This class is so creative, it requires a lot of hands-on activities and allows us to think outside the box." Smith said.

One activity Smith really enjoyed doing was the work journals. "We write what we have learned in the class and how we treated the chickens and grew the vegetables. It shows what kind of work we are all capable of." Smith said.

Hallisn't the only teacher taking classes outside.

Science teacher Lauren Niemann spent the majority of the school year educating her students outside. Just one of the many projects she led required students to measure leaves and determine how their shape depends on the seasces. The lesson showed students how a tree with bigger leaves is often benithier.

Niemann truly believes that these kind of hands on projects can engage all learners. "Many students will not do anything if it doesn't interest them," said

Niemann. "The garden provides engagement within Janior Alexis Direksen took Niemann's class second trimester. 'Hoved it,' Direksen said. 'We're going to get together with Fern Crock Elementary to teach them about the greenhouse and how they can be environmentally cleaner citizens."

Niemann plans on starting other new projects as well. "I want to start a pottery project for the students in order to show them that clay came from nature and every living thing is closely connected," said Niemann. "This is what the environmental science program is really all about."

ARTICLE & SPREAD BY E. ESCAMILLA

ITS AN ENVIRONMENTAL THING

Senior Sectore Secument and LeN ya Ca dwell (above) investigate the plant they found in the garden. With the help of the notes they took in class, they tried to identify the plant through the leaves. "It was very interesting," Caldwell said. "It was comothing different and unique from what I learn from other a cases."

EEP IT CLEAN

Public health is very important to every any society, this is why people are always encouraged to wash their nancs which is especially important when working with animals. According to environmental teacher John Hall (left) with senior Emant Sanderson, good hygiene is a tradial in the garden. "We need to give chickens a bath in order to mointain a healthy garden," said Hall. "If we don't clean them, they will attract bugs that could harr our araps."
Hall says proper handwashing reduces the chance of infection.

between props and helps maintainic electrienzirenment in which to loam.

students share their thoughts on the environmental program

Academic Spread 2nd Place

The Tiger Fern Creek High School

Academic Spread 1st Place

Reflections F.J. Reitz High School

Candid Feature Photo

Candid Feature Photo 3rd Place

LC Newton Shamrock Trinity High School

Candid Feature Photo 2nd Place

Camron Morrissey
The Crimson
DuPont Manual High School

Candid Feature Photo 1st Place Bronwen Waddell
The Angeline
Sacred Heart Academy

Sports Action Photo

Sports Action Photo 3rd Place

Christy Browning
The Raider
Warren East High School

Sports Action Photo 2nd Place

Keely Wells
The Talon
Eastern High School

Sports Action Photo 1st Place

Grace Bradley
The Crimson
DuPont Manual High School

Feature Story

: Seniors Jated Jeffers, Alex Gilbert, Josh Lister, Dalton Harris, Legan Long, and Sam Blackwell cheer on their Wildeats during the state game against Johnston Central.)

(Bottom: Senior Stul Beady runs a kickoff return for a big gain that set up the game winning souchdown against Collins.)

It Wasn't A Fluke

{"Smashed them right in the Mouth"}

"We came out and smashed them right in the mouth!" Quarterback Rylan Thomas's post-game interview was spot on when describing the Wildcats dominance in the Class 4A State Championship title game. Franklin-Simpson defeated Johnson Central High School 35-21 in an emotional victory that erased any memory of last year's devastating loss to the Golden Eagles in the championship game. Revenge was certainly on the plate as the Wildcats marched onto Kroger Field in December, but more importantly Franklin-Simpson was looking to showcase the power of the Wildcat spirit. "We just wanted to prove to everyone we are a championship level team, and in the end we accomplished our dream," said senior Saul Brady.

This dream did not begin in the weeks preceding the title clash however. Franklin-Simpson has been working for a championship since the loss last year. "After the big loss we took last year, the team came back hungry to work and win. We kept the loss in our minds and it motivated us to keep getting better," said junior Jack Randolph. The hard work showed rhroughout the season, but the first five weeks were a bumpy road for the Wildcats as they fell to 2-3. The homeooming heartbreak to Meade County would be the last loss of the entire season however, as Franklin Simpson stormed their remaining five opponents to finish the season 7-3 and with playoff aspirations in their eyes. The Cats picked up two easy wins in the first two rounds, dominating Hopkins County Central and Madisonville-North Hopkins.

The following week was the real challenge as the Wildcats would face off against regional rival Hopkinsville. Franklin-Simpson found themselves down 20-0 halfway through the second quarter, but after a power outage and a touchdown run from senior James Baker the Wildcats found their fire and stormed back to score 35 straight points and advance to the next round. In the state semi-final match up

[Dominant: The Wildcats celebrate and pose with the state championship trophy on Kroger Field after the game,]

{Bottons: Juniors Jack Randolph and Tre Bass celebrate scoring a touchdown in the state championship game.} "To win the State Championship was the greatest feeling in the world. Personally, I relt like we coved it to the town and everyone who faithfully came to our games throughout the entire year. We came up short last year and we just simply refused to end the season with anything less then a State Championship."

-Steven Starks, 12, Defensive Lineman

"It felt really good to win a championship my senior year. Like REALLY good. I'm just glad that we were able to bring this ring back to the community after all the support they've given us."

-James Baker, 12, Runningback

"It feels great to be able to pur the rity on our backs and bring a championship back to the community. Next year, I know there's going to be a locust pressure to succeed after the success we've had this year. But there's no reason, that we ran't be back in the same position playing for a state title next year."

-Tre' Bass, 11, Runningback

"Winning the state championship hasn't even fully his me yet, considering that it had not been done in 37 years. Pootball has been the time of my life building friendships with my teaminates who will be my brothers for life! I'm even more excited knowing I have two more years to hopefully keep this winning tradition going."

-Connect Rogers, 10, Linebacker

clear eyes, full hearts.

(In every same, and every win, no term could much the second

Feature Story 3rd Place

Will Randolph
The Wildcat
Franklin-Simpson High School

CELEBRITIES SIMILARITIES

Two students share their names with some of Hollywood's Red Carpet celebrities

"When I was little, they called me Hermione, . . . but now I don't get it as often," said Emma Watson, 11. "Thank God."

Watson and Dev Patel, 12, share names with two of Hollywood's top stars. Their famous names have certainly garnered some attention.

"Dev is a pretty common name in India," said Patel. "The [friends] that have heard of [the celebrity Dev Patel] always reference him and say that I look like him, but I really don't."

Watson shares her name with the British actress known primarily for her role as Hermione Granger in the Harry Potter movies.

"She's such a strong woman, and she's smart and pretty, so I'm happy about sharing a name with her," said Watson.

Even though Watson shares the name of the more popular of the two actors, she has only seen two movies starring Emma Watson: "The Perks of Being a Wallflower" and "Beauty and the Beast."

"Everyone would say, 'You have the same name as Hermione,' and I [didn't] know who that was," said Watson.

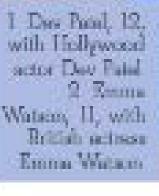

Having a famous person's name can mean introductions to people don't go smoothly.

"It usually shooks a lot of teachers and students," said Patel.

The attention they received for their names has mostly been benign and fun, though.

"I feel privileged," said Watson.

Feature Story 2nd Place

Astrid Kuttlewascher
The Chronicle
South Warren High School

sents who got to goo inside to see the entipse ring a pair of JC-S approved eclipse glasses. e never even anything like the eclipce before. The sea of cours; made if 10 times better," sold

ALL EYES IN THE SKY

Due to rules set down by the school boom, only centin glasses were allowed on the day of the eclipse and these glasses were difficult to find. Several science reachers had access to thom which allowed students like Nicolas Little (bottom left) and Elise Jackson (bottom right) to go outs do to see the edipse. "The edipse was quite overrated to me, not really what I expected. The glasses were accilibut kind of outside than what it ended up being it.

2017 Eclipse: Did it live up the hype?

to infinity and beyond

rare sight in the sky leads to unusual day

tudents at Fern Creek High School had a once in a lifetime chance this year to witness one of nature's greatest spectocles. On August 21, 2017 at approximately 2:00 p.m., the moon passed between the Earth and sun, creating a rare solar eclipse. Solar eclipses are quite rare across the United States. The last one took place in 1998, but it only reached totality in the Caribbean. However, the solar eclipse in August crossed over a significant part of the United States, especially in Kentucky. Thousands of people, including some Forn Creek students, traveled to Hopkinsville to witness 100 percent eclipse totality while some stayed in Louisville to witness 96 percent totality.

Principal Nathan Meyer wanted students to experience this amazing opportunity together. as a school and the original plan was for all 1700 students to go outside to see the eclipse. The Fern Creek Alumni Association even donated enough special eclipse glasses for every student to have a pair. However, JCPS officials said that only certain glasses were allowed and the donated ones were not up to school board standards. Students were then given excused absence permission slips if they wanted to miss school to see the eclipse.

Many students and parents were excited for this educational opportunity. Sophomore Shelby Bussell had her parents sign the permission slip and she camped out for almost a week with her friend in Hopkinsville. "I'm so glad my parents let me miss school for the solar eclipse. It was truly mind blowing," Bussell said. "Traffic was terrible. There were nearly 500 people or more watching it too. At one point, the bathrooms broke so everyone freaked out and drove to the nearest McDonalds just to use the restroom."

Junior Seruh Haavistola made the drive to totality and back all in one day. She says the traffic getting to and from Hopkinsville was a total nightmare but worth it. "The coolest thing was seeing how many people were there," said Haavistola. "I feel so fortunate to have gotten the chance to leave school and see something so memorable."

Even if they didn't travel all the way to Hopkinsville, some students still got a chance to see the eclipse while they were at school. Science teacher Lauren Niemann received board approved glasses for her students as a givenway from Heine Brothers Coffee. Science teacher Rob Redies obtained 50 sets of donated glasses that were board approved and math teacher Joe Hutchins also had permission to take students to the greenhouse outside for the rare event. "My AP physics students were the ones in my morn at the time of the eclipse, so I was very thankful to he able to take them out," said Hutchins who only had about ten of his 22 students in attendance on eclipse day.

Hundreds of Fern Creek students weren't as lucky; they were forced to experience the celipse from inside the school building, like sophomore Jayla Groves. "My mom made me go to school even though it would have been an excused. absence if she would have signed the permission slip," said Groves, "Luckily, I was able to see what it was like because someone posted it on Instagram."

Many students say the eclipse was an amazing experience and others said it was overhyped. "I expected it to be completely dark at my house during the time of the eclipse, however, it was still really cool to watch. In a way you could say it was a once in a lifetime opportunity for it to be so close to us,* said senior Noah Kitts. "Without the glasses, it was pretty hard to even tell what was going

The media made it very obvious that glasses were important to witnessing the eclipse because it was harmful to the eyes without it but some decided otherwise. "I wanted to be a daredevil and not wear glasses to watch the eclipse at my house, so I did," said junior Osman Sall who added that his vision remained fine after the eclipse.

Many students thought this eclipse was a once in a lifetime opportunity, but in reality they happen every couple of years in different regions around the world. The next expected solar eclipse to cross the United States is expected in 2024. "I hope that I can witness the next eclipse in totality the next time it crosses the United States." said Kitts.

PREPARE TO BE ENGAGED

Senior Tim Anderson (left) and junior Adrian Biggs (above) prepare to view the solar eclipse. "I didn't get a really good bolk at it, but knowing something like that was happening. was pretty cool," said Riggs.

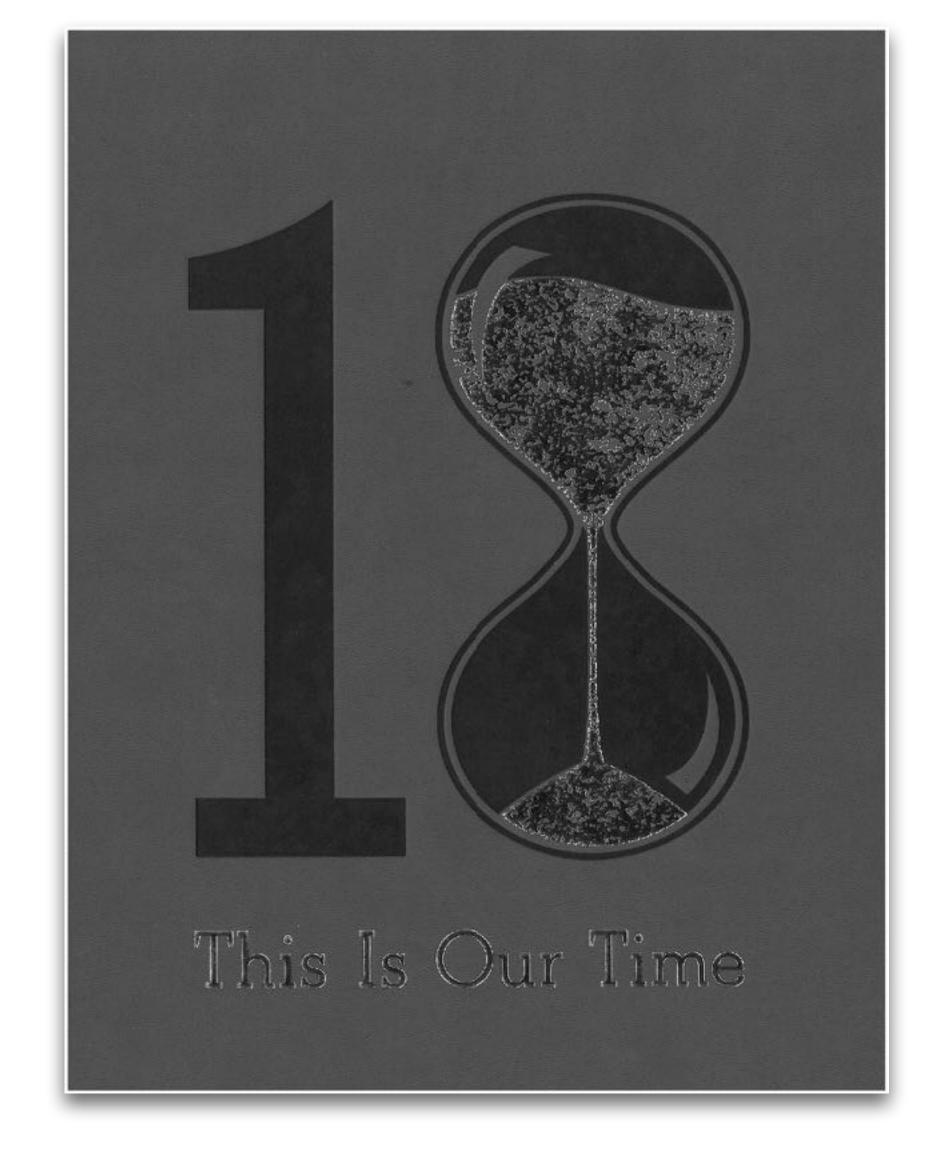

restimar Dakolu Hoskins (top right) ries ic take a picture of e sky in the minutes leading up to the eclipse.

Feature Story 1st Place

Emma Smith The Tiger Fern Creek High School

Cover Design

Cover Design
3rd Place

The Chronicle South Warren High School

Cover Design 2nd Place

Butleraire Butler County High School

Cover Design
1st Place

The Raider Warren East High School

Overall Yearbook Advertising

Overall Yearbook Advertising 3rd Place

The Wildcat Franklin-Simpson High School

Overall Yearbook Advertising 2nd Place

Overall Yearbook Advertising 1st Place

The Tiger Fern Creek High School

Overall Yearbook Theme Development

Overall Yearbook
Theme Development
3rd Place

The Chronicle
South Warren High School

CONTENTS

| Summer | 4   |
|--------|-----|
| Fall   | 12  |
| Winter | 46  |
| Spring |     |
| People | 144 |
| Clubs  | 200 |
| Index  | 218 |

PYOUR YEAR

BE. This simple verb is used by us every day with little thought given to the word. During freshman year, TO BE is one of the very first verbs we learn in Spanish or French class. Yet it's also the verb our senior English teachers beg us not to use in our college essays. However, once we got to thinking a bit more about the word BE, we realized it's the perfect word to describe how we learn and grow at Sacred Heart Academy.

During the 2017-2018 school year, Sacred Heart was the place to BE. This year, we reached goals, broke records, and changed the community around us. We got to BE ourselves while making this school year everything we wanted it to BE. However, none of this would BE possible without the environment Sacred Heart provides for its students.

We are successful here because Sacred Heart Academy gives us a place to BE coursecous and authentic. Whether it's

We are successful here because Sacred Heart Academy gives us a place to BE courageous and authentic. Whether it's on the field with our teams, singing our hearts out on stage, or studying hard for that IB diploma medal, we all have a place to BE ourselves. Within these walls of Sacred Heart, we can BE unique and also BE comfortable in who we are. Yet at the same time, SHA also lets us grow and explore who we aspire to BE in the future.

So, whether you're a freshman just beginning your journey as a Valkyric or a senior saying your last goodbyes, you will always have a place to BE at Sacred Heart. Sacred Heart has transformed all of our lives, teaching us and guiding us as we discover who we are and who we want to BE. But luckily, not matter who we are or who we become, we will always BE Valkyries—strong women of great faith.

DEDICATION

We dedicate volume 112 of The Angeline to the wonderful teachers retiring in 2018: Madame Jocelyne Cross, Dr. Anna Jo Paul, and Mrs. Ruth Kelly. We thank you for your many years of service and for the lasting impact you have had on our lives.

CONTENTS /

Overall Yearbook Theme Development 2nd Place

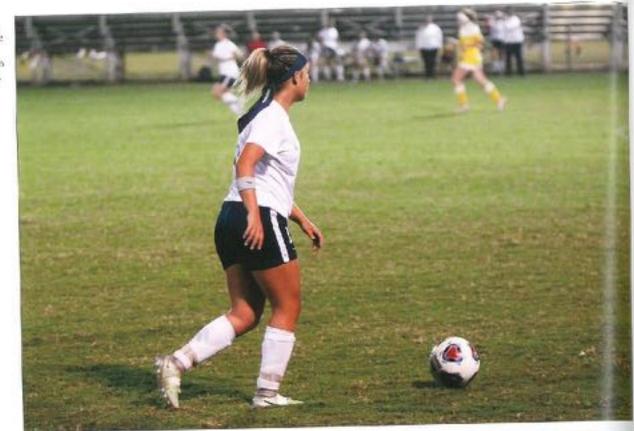

The Angeline Sacred Heart Academy

Overall Yearbook
Theme Development
1st Place

Overall Yearbook Layout & Design

Senior July Johnston (11) gets ready to kick the ball down the field. Johnston showed great leadership through her position as a fram captain on the ream.

Carrying on the Traditions

The Girls' Soccer Team has an annual tradition to invite the Reitz High School graduates, who were previously on the soccer team, back to the pitch.

These alumni get to relive their positions on the Girls' Soccer Team and rounite with their teammates. The players participate in the game in the beginning of August with all of the Reitz Soncer Alumni, and even some parents. A lot of Soccer graduates see this game as a time to rekindle their time on the team with the players they once played with.

Girls' soccer coach Jeremy Wolfe, explained that the reason they keep up with this tradition is to keep the alumni involved.

Macy Snodgrass, a senior on the girls' soccer team, said the game is so important because "it's fun to come back and see everyone again, even after they move on from high school.

"It's a lot of fun, and something us seniors look forward to after we graduate," Snodgrass added.

Alexis Lasher, a Reitz Soccer alumni, is thrilled the tradition

"The Alumni Came is a way to relive your joys that you had when you played that sport and hopefully deepen your love for it," she said. "It's a fun way to challenge yourself to stay involved after graduation, and to see old friends in the setting you were most familiar."

to defend her goal against the Central Soccer Team.

PHOTOS | SARAH LABITZKE STORIES & DESIGN | SAVANNA BRYANT

Janior Katelyno Furbee (26) defends her possession on the ball against a player from Central High School. Katelyno was awarded 3rd Team All State for her rigorous playing during her soccer season.

We BUST ours...

We KICK yours

their overall score of 11 wins, 6 losses, and 1 tie. The Girls played convincing wins of the season. hard, and were able to earn their way to being ranked into the top live Southern Indiana Girls Soccer Teams.

game. Reitz and Mater Dei rivalry is well known on the Westside, extra work in. and they don't just battle on the football field. Reitz, at their rivalry game this year, won against Mater Dei in a 3-1 game.

Another highlight of the season was their victory over North

The Cirls' Soccer Team had an amazing winning season with Poscy. Reitz won 11-1, which ended up being one of the most

The girls on the team put the extra effort in to really strive during their season, and worked endlessly to do the best they can. One of the biggest wins from the season was the Mater Dei These girls went to work before the school year started to put the > Coach Jeremy Wolfe had the Girls' Soccer Team go the extra mile with summer conditioning to get them ready for the season.

> > Girls' Soccer | 39

Overall Yearbook Layout & Design 3rd Place lents dress up in various outfits show off their school spirit. to Battom: Color Day; Tourist Twin Day; Mathlese vs Athlete Day: Blue and White Day.)

coming at the sool was great I was able to nt my class as a condidate." stion Flynn, lot of blood, and sears went hese past four 'Il cherish the

With competition and school spirit running wild, Homecoming Week is one of the most exciting times every year at Franklin-Simpson High School. Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors faced off against each other in a series of competitive events from men's volleyball to PowderPuff football. Meanwhile, the classes were hard at work all week building their floats for Friday's parade, each one aiming to tell a story through their work.

You could feel the energy in the building each day as students came to school in an assortment of outfits for the "Wizard of Oz" inspired dress-up days. When it came to the class competitions, the most exciting event was certainly the men's volleyball tournament. Students packed the gymnasium bleachers and lined the baskerball court to watch the Seniors repeat as champions in the event's second year. On Thursday night, the PowderPuff games drew a community-wide crowd as the Juniors took 1st place.

The class race was tight as students covered in blue and white filled the football bleachers for Friday's pep rally. The whole school was roaring and rowdy as they shouted out the battle cry and sang. the alma matter to let the football team know: Franklin was ready for Homecoming football.

Before the game, the sophomore class was announced as the winners of the class competition, and Brooklyn Holder was crowned Homecoming Queen for 2017. "I'm so grateful to be able to represent my school and community this way. I'll forever remember being crowned the 2017 football homocoming queen," the senior cheerleader said. The crowd cheered, and the cheerleaders ran out onto the field to congratulate their teammate. When it came time for football, FS and Meade County didn't disappoint. The game went down to the last second, and while the Cats might have came up short against the Green Wave in the game, the Homecoming spirit always wins in Franklin.

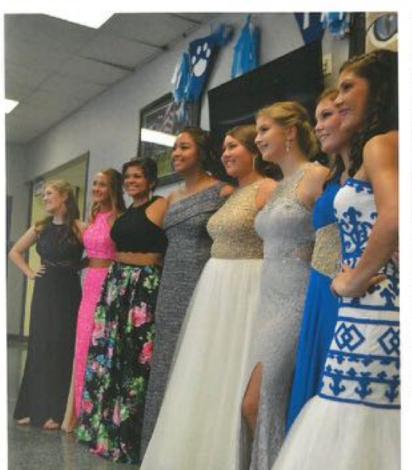

(Top right: Senior TJ Hollars staples pourps onto the senior float on Thursday night.)

> (Bottom: The sophomore class cheers during the pep rally on

(Dominant: Football players Jayethen Dover, Treyvon Dunn, Dalton Hunter, Jaslen Garner, and Elliah Barnett walk with their transmates during the pop raily before the Homocoming football game against Meade County.)

(Bottom left: The football homocoming candidates pose for a picture for the Franklin. Payonite before the parade.)

[Butturn right: Senior Semuel Blackwell gets ready for a spike against Junior Jacob Costis in the charquinoshop game of the men's volleyball tournament.]

Overall Yearbook Layout & Design 2nd Place

The Wildcat Franklin-Simpson High School

Overall Yearbook Layout & Design 1st Place

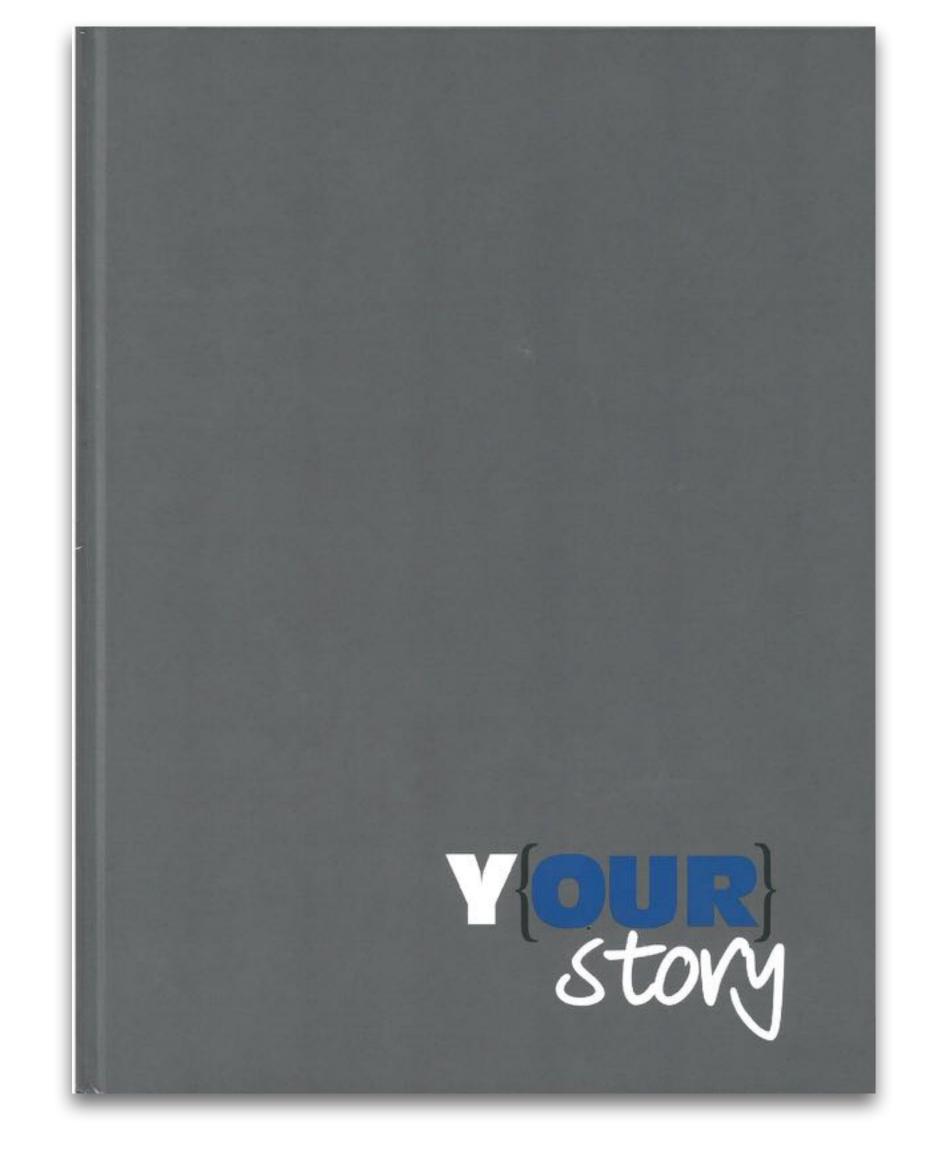

The Angeline Sacred Heart Academy

Best Overall Yearbook

Best Overall Yearbook 3rd Place

The Angeline Sacred Heart Academy

Best Overall Yearbook 2nd Place

The Wildcat Franklin-Simpson High School

Best Overall Yearbook 1st Place

James L. Highland Media Adviser of the Year

James L. Highland Media Adviser of the Year

Cole Claybourn F.J. Reitz High School

2018 MARK OF EXCELLENCE YEARBOOK & ADVISER AWARDS CEREMONY

