

Interesting Opportunity at Western Kentucky University for Families with Babies!

The Children and Families Lab at Western Kentucky University, directed by Dr. Diane Lickenbrock (Assistant Professor of Psychological Sciences), is recruiting families with infants to participate in a study examining social and emotional development during early infancy.

Mothers, fathers, and infants will come to WKU's main campus in Bowling Green, KY, three times to participate in a variety of different tasks. Parents will also complete questionnaires about themselves and their infants. Families will be compensated $20 for each time they participate.

Please contact the Children and Families Lab by phone at 270-745-4275 or email (childrenandfamilieslab@gmail.com) for more information.
