- 2.12 Grade Type: standard A-F final grade
- 2.13 Schedule Type: Choose the most appropriate descriptor from this list of options: Lecture

Section 3: Description of proposed course

3.1 Course Content Summary:

This course will provide students with the necessary evidence and an interpretive framework in order to acquaint students with a historical perspective on the role of alcohol in various world cultures. Through lectures, seminar-style discussions, and a wide array of primary and secondary texts (including scholarship, films, music, and primary readings) students will analyze the historical role of alcohol in various world cultures, and the ways in which historical events effected and were affected by alcohol.

3.1 Learning Outcomes:

- Students will understand the cultural politics of alcohol
- Students will analyze drinking venues as cultural "space"
- Students will assess alcohol and gender roles across cultures
- Students will analyze the ways in which alcohol played a role in larger historical events.

3.2 Assessment/Evaluation:

Student expectations and requirements:

Students will be expected to engage in critical analysis of the materials. The course evaluation will be based on exams, research papers and projects and class participation.

Section 4: Rationale

4.1 Reason for developing this proposed course:

This course was originally proposed by the History Department, using the following rationale: Alcohol is a familiar component in the lives of all students, though usually it appears in the form of advertising, consumption, or anti-alcohol campaigns. Yet few students think of the subject as one that merits scholarly attention. However, the role that alcohol plays in world cultures is a field that has begun to get more attention from scholars in the past decade . There is a professional journal devoted to the topic, an annual meeting that draws scholars from around the country, and the ways in which alcohol influenced cultures across time is now a more mainstream topic. This course will open a new field of study for students in many disciplines, allow them to examine history from an angle which is already familiar to them but which they had probably not considered as a serious academic topic, and give them a fresh perspective on history. Finally, this course will enhance students' critical thinking and analytical skills.

4.2 Relationship to similar courses offered by other university departments/units:

- Do any other courses already being offered by other university departments/units share content with this proposed course? YES
- Are any of the proposed pre/co-requisites for this course offered by another university department/unit? NO

4.2 Relationship to similar courses offered by other university departments/units:

- Do any other courses already being offered by other university departments/units share content with this proposed course? YES
- Are any of the proposed pre/co-requisites for this course offered by another university department/unit? NO

We are proposing this course as an equivalent to HIST 341, which will change its course number to HIST 395 to allow for equivalence.

The original HIST 341 proposal (November 2006) noted courses in the Department of Public Health with related content: PH 100, Personal Health, and PH 101, Dynamics of Alcohol and Drug Abuse, PH 382, Peer Health Education, PH 572, Drug abuse Prevention). As these courses cover health and medical issues, not the cultural history of alcohol, ART 395 would complement, not duplicate the Public Health classes. Similarly, PSY 441, Psychological Aspects of Alcoholism, covers psychological research and theories on alcoholism and its treatment, and would complement, not overlap ART 395. BDAS 300, The Science of Fermentation in Brewing and Distilling covers the science of making alcohol and BDAS 495, Internship in Brewing / Distilling allows a student industry experience in an aspect of brewing and/ or distilling. HMD 473 covers management of beverage operations including alcoholic beverages. None cover topics of cultural history in depth. GEOG 386, Geography of Potent Potables: Brewing, Distilling, and Wine Making explores "the geographies of alcoholic beverages...and associated cultural and environmental impacts" including the cultural importance these industries have across varied geographies and the way in which location influences cultural attitudes towards the production of alcoholic beverages. While this last course has more content overlap, it presents the material in a distinct, not duplicative, manner.

Consulted with Dr. Eric Reed, History, via phone and email multiple times including 8/22/19, 9/12/19, 9/19/19

Consulted with Dr. David Keeling and Dr. Margaret Gripshover, Geography and Geology, via email on 10/9/19

Section 5: Projected Enrollments/Resources

5.1 How many students per section are expected to enroll in this proposed course?

Enrollment in the equivalent History course has varied. Spring 2018 had 32 students.

5.1 How many sections of this course per academic year will be offered? 1

5.2 How many students per academic year are expected to enroll? 25-35

5.3 How were these projections calculated? Explain any supporting evidence/data you have for arriving at these projections:

Past enrollments for equivalent course; other 300-level Art History courses

5.4 Proposed method of staffing: Current faculty

5.5 Instructional technology resources: Are the unit's current instructional technology resources sufficient to support this course? YES

5.6 Library resources: Per prior approval of equivalent history course, library has adequate resources for this course.

Section 6: Proposed term for implementation: What semester/year will this course "come on line" and be available to students? First available

Section 7: Supplemental Documentation (Optional): If needed, append any supplemental documentation here.

2.8 Course Catalog Description: A study of religious products and the expression of religious themes in different types of popular media.

2.9 Prerequisite/Corequisites/Restrictions: N/A

2.10 Additional Enrollment Requirements: N/A

2.11 Other Special Course Requirements: N/A

2.12 Grade Type: Standard A-F final grade

2.13 Schedule Type: Lecture

Section 3: Description of proposed course

3.1 Course Content Summary: Popular Culture and the Religious Marketplace examines the relationship between religion and popular culture, as well as its intersection with other businesses in today's religious marketplace. Topics include comic books, television, film, New Age products, and the business of yoga.

3.2 Learning Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course, students will:

1. Analyze religion in popular culture on local and global scales.
2. Examine the local and global interrelationships of different products and practices that are part of the religious marketplace.
3. Evaluate the consequences of decision-making on local and global scales with respect to the ways in which businesses market religions to different communities.

3.3. Assessment/Evaluation: Students will be assessed on writing assignments, research presentations, and a scrapbooking/journal. The variety of assessments is designed to support different learning styles.

Section 4: Rationale

4.1 Reason for developing this proposed course: This course addresses the intersection of religion, popular culture, and the marketplace, appealing to a broad segment of students. The Department of Philosophy and Religion currently has no course on religion and popular culture, a subject offered at many universities and colleges around the country. It is also a course that appeals to wide segments of students, from Religion majors to Communication and Marketing majors.

4.2 Relationship to similar courses offered by other university departments/units:

- Do any other courses already being offered by other university departments/units share content with this proposed course? YES
- Are any of the proposed pre/co-requisites for this course offered by another university department/unit? NO
- If the answer to both questions is NO, simply proceed to item 5.
- If the answer to either of those questions is YES, indicate here who in the affected departments/units was consulted, and the dates of those consultations: Dr. Jeff Samuels consulted with faculty in the Popular Culture Studies Program and the department chair and the program coordinator are fine with the creation of this course.

Section 5: Projected Enrollments/Resources

5.1 How many students per section are expected to enroll in this proposed course? 30

5.2 How many sections of this course per academic year will be offered? 1-2

5.3 How many students per academic year are expected to enroll? 30-60 (more depending on number of sections offered)

5.4 How were these projections calculated? Explain any supporting evidence/data you have for arriving at these projections.

I took current enrollments of World Religions (RELS 102) and Islam in America (RELS 331), two of the Colonnade courses we currently offer, which fill.

5.5 Proposed method of staffing: Faculty of the Department of Philosophy and Religion

5.6 Instructional technology resources: N/A

5.7 Library resources: Will this proposed course require the use of library resources (books, journals, reference materials, audio-visual materials, electronic databases, etc.)? YES

If YES, was a Library Resources Form submitted to the appropriate collection development librarian prior to consideration at the college curriculum level? YES

Section 6: Proposed term for implementation: First Available

Section 7: Supplemental/Supporting Documentation: Attached is the course syllabus with proposed readings and schedules. Please note that this is a draft and the assigned readings may change before course is taught.

Popular Culture and the Religious Marketplace
RELS 340
Spring 2020
Dr. Sophia Arjana
sophia.arjana@wku.edu

Course Description

Popular Culture and the Religious Marketplace explores the interaction between religion and popular culture in North America and globally. Students will learn about the constructions of popular culture (storytelling, sports, music) through course texts, films, and other media. Students will also study religious entrepreneurs, including those who profit from New Age and spiritualist movements. This course includes both written assessments and presentations and as such, is geared toward different learning styles. Students will gain an appreciation for different cultures through this course, which is not limited to the American context.

Required Texts and Blackboard Readings

This course has two required texts. The first is:

Forbes, Bruce David and Jeffrey H. Mahan, eds. Religion and Popular Culture in America: Revised Edition. Berkeley: University of California Press, 2005.

Choose one of the following for the second text. You must sign up for your text within the first two weeks of class:

*Please note that this list will be expanded before the class is offered.

Nama, Adilifu. Super Black: American Pop Culture and Black Superheroes. Austin: University of Texas, 2011.

Garrett, Greg. Entertaining Judgment: The Afterlife in Popular Imagination. New York: Oxford University Press, 2015.

*This book focuses on how the afterlife is portrayed in popular culture, from Field of Dreams to The Walking Dead.

Klassen, Chris. Religion and Popular Culture: A Cultural Studies Approach. Ontario: Oxford University Press, 2014.

*This book focuses on issues like race, class, and gender and their role in popular culture.

Iwamura, Jane. Virtual Orientalism: Asian Religions and American Popular Culture. New York: Oxford University Press, 2011.

*This book focuses on the Asian monk and guru in popular culture.

Bishop, Kyle William. American Zombie Gothic: The Rise and Fall (and Rise) of the Walking Dead in Popular Culture. McFarland and Company, 2010.

*This book focuses on the history of the zombie and its popularity in popular culture, included its ties to politics.

Wagner, Rachel. Godwired: Religion, Ritual, and Virtual Reality. London: Routledge, 2012.

*This book focuses on religion in digital space and asks religious questions about the mythic worlds created in cyberspace.

All other required readings are listed in the schedule of classes and are available on Blackboard.

Colonnade Learning Outcomes/Artifacts and Evidence

- 1) Analyze religion in popular culture on local and global scales.
- 2) Examine the local and global interrelationships of different products and practices that are part of the religious marketplace.
- 3) Evaluate the consequences of decision-making on local and global scales with respect to the ways in which businesses market religions to different communities.

During the course of the semester, students will do the following:

- 1) Write a midterm essay (outcome 1 & 2)
- 2) Write a final paper on religious and popular culture (outcome 2)
- 3) Research and present on two topics related to the course (outcome 3)
- 4) Create a scrapbook of popular culture images (outcome 1 & 3)

Grading

Grading is on a 100-point scale. No weighted grades, no surprises, no pop quizzes, no final exam, no extra credit. This is as straightforward as it can be.

Midterm Presentation	20% (20 points)
Final Presentation	20% (20 points)
Brief Essay	20% (20 points)
Final Paper	20% (20 points)
Scrapbook	20% (20 points)

All assignments are due to me in hard (paper) copy on the due date.

Scrapbook

The scrapbook is a way of you engaging with popular culture in a country or region outside of North America.

Think of this as a journal of your reflections on popular culture in the global context.

Requirements: A minimum of one page per week, for a total of 15 pages. You may include images from magazines, the internet, or other sources. Your scrapbook should include a cover page that identifies your subject and what you learned from the scrapbooking exercise. This portion should be no longer than two pages double-spaced Times New Roman 12.

Brief Essay

This is a very brief essay on the reading or non-traditional text (i.e. film or television series, such as The Simpsons) you found the most compelling, explaining what you learned from it and how it helped you understand the intersection between religion and popular culture. It will analyze religion in popular culture on local and global scales, examine the local and global interrelationships of different products and practices that are part of the religious marketplace. It should be no longer than three pages, double-spaced, 12 point Times New Roman font and must include Chicago Manual of Style footnotes.

Midterm and Final Presentations

Presentations are designed to appeal to numerous learning styles.

Think of this as a way to explore topics in ways that are creative and non-traditional.

Requirements: Each presentation should be 5-10 minutes long and must include a word cloud, timeline, or story map. For the last two options, you must use the timeline and story map online programs at knightlab.northwestern.edu. You need to include an annotated bibliography in Chicago Style (this is a bibliography with a one-paragraph summary of each of your four sources) and should consist of the following:

1)Midterm Presentation: Fandom

Topics might include one of the following: Star Wars, Harry Potter, Star Trek, Ms. Marvel, Black Panther

2)Final Presentation: Global Popular Culture* (*forms of popular culture that have global reach)

Topics might include one of the following: Japanese horror cinema, Korean pop music, Algerian Rai music, hip-hop, Islamic sacred music, Bollywood cinema, global/world music

Your presentations should focus on the consequences of decision-making on local and global scales with respect to the ways in which businesses market religions to different communities

Final Paper

This paper will answer a question posed by this class that focuses the consequences of decision-making on local and global scales with respect to the ways in which businesses market religions to different communities. This is likely to be a student-generated question that will emerge from class discussions.

Requirements: Typed, 12-point Times New Roman, single-spaced. Papers should be between 5 and 7 pages, double-spaced, with Chicago Style footnotes.

Academic Integrity

Regarding cheating, the University states, “No student shall receive or give assistance not authorized by the instructor in taking an examination.” In this course, specific examples of unauthorized assistance include sharing reading notes with other students, including those enrolled in subsequent sections of this course.

Students must work independently on papers and writing assignments and avoid plagiarism, which the University defines as “any use of another writer’s words, concepts, or sequence of ideas without acknowledging that writer properly.” Violations almost always result in a zero on the paper or an automatic F in the course.

Title IX, Discrimination, Harassment, and Sexual Misconduct Policy Statement

Discrimination, harassment, and/or sexual misconduct based on sex/gender are prohibited. If you experience an incident of sex/gender-based discrimination, harassment and/or sexual misconduct, you are encouraged to report it to the Title IX Coordinator, Andrea Anderson, 270-745-5398 or Title IX Investigators, Michael Crowe, 270-745-5429 or Joshua Hayes, 270-745-5121.

Accommodations

In compliance with University policy, students who have disabilities and require academic and/or auxiliary accommodations for this course are encouraged to contact the Student Accessibility Resource Center, which is located in Downing Street Union 1074 (270-745-3004; 270-745-3030TTY); sarc.connect@wku.edu. Please obtain a faculty notification letter (FNL) from the Student Accessibility Resource Center before requesting accommodations directly from the professor.

Course Expectations

You are expected to come to every class unless you have an extenuating circumstance such as illness or family emergency (the former of which needs to be documented by a physician’s note).

Technology Policy

You are not permitted to use technology in this class except for the Art Projects at the end of the semester or other occasions that I have noted in class. This means no visible cell phones, tablets, laptops, or other devices. The only exceptions are those who have a special accommodation (see statement above). *Please remember that this policy is designed for you. Studies show that students learn better when they hand-write notes in a notebook and when they are off technology (screens) during class.

Other Important Stuff

You are encouraged to come see me at least once during the semester. We can discuss a reading, check in about class, or go over a paper.

An Important Reminder on Religious Studies in the Public University

“The school's approach to religion is academic, not devotional.

The school strives for student awareness of religions, but does not press for student acceptance of any religion.

The school sponsors study about religion, not the practice of religion.

The school may expose students to a diversity of religious views, but may not impose any particular view.

The school educates about all religions; it does not promote or denigrate religion.

Section 3: Description of proposed course

3.1 Course Content Summary: This course examines the saints, monsters, and superheroes that emerge out of religious traditions around the world. The course is organized into three units, each of which examines these characters. Students will examine topics as Christian saints, Hindu heroes, Muslim monsters, and American superheroes, through readings, class discussions, presentations, and writing assignments.

3.2 Learning Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course, students should be able to:

1. Analyze the theoretical perspectives on saints, monsters, and superheroes on both a local and global scale.
2. Examine the local and global relationships of between religion, saints, monsters, and superheroes.
3. Evaluate the consequences of the decisions about the portrayal of saints, monsters, and superheroes in both local and global religious contexts.

3.3 Assessment/Evaluation: Students will be assessed on a story map, a research presentation, a paper, and a review. The variety of assessments is designed to support different learning styles.

Section 4: Rationale

4.1 Reason for developing this proposed course: This course addresses the shortfall of classes that examine religion and global cultures from a comparative perspective. It is intended to be a Colonnade Connections course that has broad appeal to students across the university community.

4.2 Relationship to similar courses offered by other university departments/units:

- Do any other courses already being offered by other university departments/units share content with this proposed course? NO
- Are any of the proposed pre/co-requisites for this course offered by another university department/unit? NO
- If the answer to both questions is NO, simply proceed to item 5.
- If the answer to either of those questions is YES, indicate here who in the affected departments/units was consulted, and the dates of those consultations:

Section 5: Projected Enrollments/Resources

- 5.1 How many students per section are expected to enroll in this proposed course? 30
- 5.2 How many sections of this course per academic year will be offered? 1-2
- 5.3 How many students per academic year are expected to enroll? 30-60 (depending on number of sections)
- 5.4 How were these projections calculated? Explain any supporting evidence/data you have for arriving at these projections.

I am taking the current enrollments of World Religions (RELS 102) and Islam in America (RELS 331) to arrive at these projections.

- 5.5 Proposed method of staffing: Faculty from the Department of Philosophy and Religion

- 5.6 Instructional technology resources: Blackboard

- 5.7 Library resources: Will this proposed course require the use of library resources (books, journals, reference materials, audio-visual materials, electronic databases, etc.)? YES

If YES, was a Library Resources Form submitted to the appropriate collection development librarian prior to consideration at the college curriculum level? YES

Section 6: Proposed term for implementation: First Available

Section 7: Supplemental/Supporting Documentation: Attached is the full course syllabus with proposed readings and schedule. Please note that this is a draft and the assigned readings may change before course is taught.

Saints, Monsters, and Superheroes
RELS 455
Spring 2020
Dr. Sophia Arjana
sophia.arjana@wku.edu

Course Description

Saints, Superheroes, and Monsters examines the characters that are situated in religious traditions and cultures around the world. The course begins with a strong theoretical unit, focused on the work of scholars working on saints and sainthood, superheroes, and “monster theory.” Students then turn to topics such as Christian and Muslim saints, Hindu heroes, American superheroes, the monsters of the Bible, and the monsters of Gothic horror (such as Dracula).

Required Texts and Blackboard Readings

Robert Orsi, Between Heaven and Earth: The Religious Worlds People Make and the Scholars Who Study Them

Jeffrey Jerome Cohen, Monster Theory: Reading Culture

Sophia Arjana, Veiled Superheroes: Islam, Feminism, and Popular Culture

All other readings are available on Blackboard.

In addition, students will have academic articles posted on Blackboard in PDF form.

Students will choose a book from this list for their review (see instructor if you want to review a book outside of this list):

Julian of Norwich, Revelations of Divine Love

Simone Weil, Waiting for God

Jonathon Chism, Saints in the Struggle: Church of God in Christ Activists in the Memphis Civil Rights Movement, 1954-1968

Timothy Beal, Religion and Its Monsters

Judith Jack Halberstam, Skin Shows: Gothic Horror and the Technology of Monsters

Bram Stoker, Dracula

Jay Smith, Monsters of the Gévaudan: The Making of a Beast

Ahmed Saadawi, Frankenstein in Baghdad

Bruce Kapferer, A Celebration of Demons: Exorcism and the Aesthetics of Healing in Sri Lanka

Kyle William Bishop, American Zombie Gothic: The Rise and Fall (and Rise) of the Walking Dead in Popular Culture

Charlotte Dacre, Zofloya, or The Moor

William Beckford, Vathek

Rider Haggard, She

Theresa Smith, The Anishnaabeg: Thunderers and Water Monsters in the Traditional Ojibwe Life-World

W. Scott Poole, Monsters in America: Our Historical Obsession with the Hideous and the Haunting

Erica Segre, Ghosts of the Revolution in Mexican Literature and Visual Culture: Revisitations in Modern and Contemporary Creative Media

Luis Leon, La Llorona's Children: Religion, Life, and Death in the U.S.-Mexican Borderlands

Justin McDaniel, The Lovelorn Ghost and the Magical Monk: Practicing Buddhism in Modern Thailand

Richard Stevens, Captain America, Masculinity, and Violence: The Evolution of a National Icon
Batman and Philosophy: The Dark Knight of the Soul (edited volume)

Colonnade Learning Outcomes/Artifacts and Evidence

1. Analyze the theoretical perspectives on saints, monsters, and superheroes on both a local and global scale.
2. Examine the local and global relationships of between religion, saints, monsters, and superheroes.
3. Evaluate the consequences of the decisions about the portrayal of saints, monsters, and superheroes in both local and global religious contexts.

During the course of the semester, students will do the following:

- 1) Prepare a story map of a saint, superhero, or monster (Objective 3)
- 2) Write a final paper on a religious character introduced in (or inspired by) course readings (objective 1 and 3)
- 3) Research and present on one topic related to the course (objective 1 and 2)
- 4) Write a book review that is from a list of books supplied by the instructor of this course (objective 2)

Grading

Grading is on a 100-point scale. No weighted grades, no surprises, no pop quizzes, no final exam, no extra credit. This is as straightforward as it can be.

Story maps	30% (30 points)
Presentation	25% (25 points)
Final Paper	25% (25 points)
Book Review	20% (20 points)

All written assignments are due to me in hard (paper) copy on the due date.

Story Maps

Story maps are designed to help students think about the narratives tied to monsters. They will help students evaluate the consequences of the decisions about the portrayal of saints, monsters, and superheroes in both local and global religious contexts.

Requirements: Use knightlab.northwestern.com for your story maps. Your maps must tell the story of a saint, monster, or superhero/superheroine that includes the following information: religious tradition, date(s) or date range, narrative of the character, and visual expression (novel, film, etc.). You will present these in class and have the option of working together on joint presentations of these maps. Your map must be accompanied by a list of sources in a Chicago Style annotated bibliography.

Presentation

Presentations are designed to appeal to numerous learning styles.

Think of this as a way to explore topics in ways that are creative and non-traditional.

10-minutes long.

Use knightlab.northwestern.edu

Requirements: Each presentation should include an annotated bibliography in Chicago Style (this is a bib with a one-paragraph summary of each of your four sources) and must consist of one of the following:

1) A timeline of a monster.

A timeline reflecting a character. For example, you could look at St. Francis, Rumi, the dog-headed men (cynocephalie) of medieval Europe, the vampires of Gothic horror, Superman, or the new Ms. Marvel. You must include the annotated bibliography (I would suggest attaching it to the back of your project, or including it in a binder if you go that route).

2) An analysis of a theory covered in class (on religion, saints, monsters, or superheroes) using a word cloud.

For example, a word cloud representing a theory of monsters (either Beal or Cohen would be valuable resources here) you find compelling.

3) Another form of an “infograph” of monsters such as a family tree/genogram of related monsters, a graph showing the rise and fall of a monster (Kyle William Bishop did this with zombie films and their ties to social anxiety), or other visual presentation of material. Think of an infograph as a visual presentation of the material that reflects information important to the study of religion and monsters.

This presentation will allow students both to analyze the theoretical perspectives on saints, monsters, and superheroes on both a local and global scale, as well as examine the local and global relationships of between religion, saints, monsters, and superheroes.

Final Paper

This paper will answer a question posed by this class. It will allow students to analyze the theoretical perspectives on saints, monsters, and superheroes on both a local and global scale, as well as evaluate the consequences of the decisions about the portrayal of saints, monsters, and superheroes in both local and global religious contexts. This is likely to be chosen from a list of student-generated questions that will emerge from the readings and class discussions.

Requirements: Typed, 12-point Times New Roman, single-spaced. Summaries should include the following: the title of the reading with bibliographic information in the Chicago Style, a summary of the reading using excerpts from the text that are cited using Chicago footnotes.

Book Review

Each student will choose a book to review. You will write a three-page review of this book and focus on the following:

The book’s thesis

The contribution of the book to the field of religious studies? What does it teach us?

What does it teach you about the subjects explored in this class?

You will organize yourself into groups and present to the class in the style of an academic conference. This entails:

A brief presentation of your review

A theme for your panel

The expectation that students outside of your panel will pose questions that you will need to answer

Academic Integrity

Regarding cheating, the University states, “No student shall receive or give assistance not authorized by the instructor in taking an examination.” In this course, specific examples of unauthorized assistance include sharing reading notes with other students, including those enrolled in subsequent sections of this course.

Students must work independently on papers and writing assignments and avoid plagiarism, which the University defines as “any use of another writer’s words, concepts, or sequence of ideas without acknowledging that writer properly.” Violations almost always result in a zero on the paper or an automatic F in the course.

Title IX, Discrimination, Harassment, and Sexual Misconduct Policy Statement

Discrimination, harassment, and/or sexual misconduct based on sex/gender are prohibited. If you experience an incident of sex/gender-based discrimination, harassment and/or sexual misconduct, you are encouraged to report it to the Title IX Coordinator, Andrea Anderson, 270-745-5398 or Title IX Investigators, Michael Crowe, 270-745-5429 or Joshua Hayes, 270-745-5121.

Accommodations

In compliance with University policy, students who have disabilities and require academic and/or auxiliary accommodations for this course are encouraged to contact the Student Accessibility Resource Center, which is located in Downing Street Union 1074 (270-745-3004; 270-745-3030TTY); sarc.connect@wku.edu. Please obtain a faculty notification letter (FNL) from the Student Accessibility Resource Center before requesting accommodations directly from the professor.

Course Expectations

You are expected to come to every class unless you have an extenuating circumstance such as illness or family emergency (the former of which needs to be documented by a physician’s note).

Technology Policy

You are not permitted to use technology in this class except for the Art Projects at the end of the semester or other occasions that I have noted in class. This means no visible cell phones, tablets, laptops, or other devices. The only exceptions are those who have a special accommodation (see statement above). *Please remember that this policy is designed for you. Studies show that students learn better when they hand-write notes in a notebook and when they are off technology (screens) during class.

Other Important Stuff

You are encouraged to come see me at least once during the semester. We can discuss a reading, check in about class, or go over a paper.

Communication! I am very good about answering student emails, but do not answer emails on the weekends (Friday afternoon through Monday morning). Please do not email me with an emergency (“I cannot finish my paper on time!”) on the weekends because I will not see your email.

Lastly, if you are ill, please stay home (especially if you have the flu) and submit a physician’s note to excuse the absence.

Food Insecurity: Around 50% of college students have difficulty affording groceries. Please contact the WKU Food Pantry (270-745-2508) or email them at sustainability@wku.edu. If you experience food insecurity and need a snack, come see me in my office. I have emergency supplies on hand.

1. Identification of proposed course:

- 1.6 Course prefix (subject area) and number: SPED 480
- 1.7 Course title: Senior Project for Learning and Behavior Disorders
- 1.8 Credit Hours: 3

2. Proposed course title: Data-driven Decisions in Special Education

3. Proposed abbreviated course title: Data Decisions in SPED

(maximum of 30 characters/spaces)

4. Rationale for the revision of course title: The SPED program revision allowed a better alignment of courses with the ELED portion of the program. Both programs will have a data-driven decision making course which will provide an opportunity to co-teach and collaborate. We wanted to align the titles and have the titles make a statement about the content of the course. The content remains the same.

Proposal to Create a New Course

Section 1: Proponent Contact Information

- 1.1 Name/Title: J Dusteen Knotts, Assoc. Prof
- 1.2 Email address: jdusteen.knotts@wku.edu
- 1.3 Phone # 615 335 2684

Section 2: Course Catalog Information

- 2.1 Course prefix (subject area) and number: SPED 346
- 2.2 Course CIP code: 13.1019
- 2.3 Course title: Learning and Behavior Disorders Secondary Methods- Math
- 2.4 Abbreviated Course title: LBD secondary math
- 2.5 Credit hours/Variable credit: 3
- 2.6 Repeatability: N/A
- 2.7 Course Term: One term
- 2.8 Course Catalog Description: Methods, strategies, and models for providing curricular and instructional methodologies for LBD students in the math content. Integration of appropriate age- and ability-level academic instruction preparing for transition to work. Field experiences required. Students are responsible for own transportation to designated sites.
- 2.9 Prerequisite/Corequisites/Restrictions: Pre-Req SPED 335
- 2.10 Additional Enrollment Requirements: Acceptance to Profession Teacher Education
- 2.11 Other Special Course Requirements: Field hours are part of this clinical program
- 2.12 Grade Type: A-F
- 2.13 Schedule Type: Applied Learning & Lecture/Lab

Section 3: Description of proposed course This course is designed for teachers who are credentialed to teach students with mild to moderate exceptionalities who will be working in the general education curriculum and seeking a general high school diploma. Specially designed instruction in the math content area is essential for these students and must be applied based on their needs to adjust the pace, content, feedback, technology, and extent of the work they need to master the content.

3.1 Course Content Summary: Candidates receive certification for P-12 Exceptional Education: Learning and Behavior Disorders so they must have a solid grasp of aligning student strengths with specially designed instruction in the content area of mathematics. This course is designed to look specifically at this content area and instruction strategies aligned with disability characteristics to address the learning challenges in mathematics.

3.3 Learning Outcomes:

Course objectives are part of a comprehensive program to meet both KY teacher standards (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10) and Council for Exceptional Children {2.1, 2.2, 3.1, 3.2, 3.3, 5.5, 6.2, 7.3}.

Learner Outcomes:

At the conclusion of this course, students will:

1. demonstrate knowledge about standards, curricula, accommodation/modifications and instructional practices used in the construction and delivery of instruction in Math content. (CEC/KY 1& 2) (KFT 1A, 1B, 1C, 1E, 1F, 2A, 3A, 3C, 3D, 3E,) (InTASC 4, 5)
2. development of appropriate IEPs meeting student needs as determined by both formal and informal Math assessment. (CEC/KY 4, 8) (KFT 1B, 1C, 1D, 1E, 2B, 2C, 2E, 3A, 3B, 3C, 3E, 4C) (InTASC 6)
3. collect specially designed instruction tools, research-based instructional strategies, and learning strategies in the areas of Math skills for youth with mild or moderate disabilities. (CEC/KY 3, 4, 5, 6) (KFT 1B, 1C, 1D, 1E, 1F, 2A, 2B, 2C, 2D, 2E, 3A, 3B, 3C, 3D, 3E, 4A, 4B, 4C) (InTASC 4, 5, 8)
4. review and discuss current trends, issues, and challenges for education of students with mild to moderate disabilities in Math. (CEC/KY 6, 8, 9, 10) (KFT 1D, 1E, 2E, 4A, 4C, 4D) (InTASC 9, 10)
5. demonstrate use of technology in Mathematical lesson design, implementation, student use in lesson work and student progress (KY 6) (1D, 1E, 2A, 2E,) (InTASC 6, 7)

3.4 Assessment/Evaluation: Learning outcomes will be assessed by activities, demonstrations, professional reading summaries, application in the field, monitoring by master teachers, tests, and self-reflection.

Section 4: Rationale

4.1 Reason for developing this proposed course: This course is part of a careful review of the program. This review included input from our region, current candidates, standards, and alumni focus on improvement. Increased time in the secondary area in both literacy and math strategies was identified. The program had one course, SPED 345, which addressed this content. We changed the SPED 345 course to focus on reading and writing in secondary (middle and high school) and added the SPED 346 course for math in secondary. This increases the direct instruction in each content area and allows fieldwork in both areas. Special education and math are both key areas where our Kentucky region and beyond see gaps in student learning and are considered critical areas.

4.2 Relationship to similar courses offered by other university departments/units: No other course deals with this specific content area. No other course affected by this change.

Section 5: Projected Enrollments/Resources

5.1 How many students per section are expected to enroll in this proposed course? Due to the clinical nature of the course, this is limited to 20 students per section.

5.7 How many sections of this course per academic year will be offered?
2-2

5.8 How many students per academic year are expected to enroll? 40-50

5.9 How were these projections calculated? Explain any supporting evidence/data you have for arriving at these projections: Over the last two years, we have averaged 50 students entering the program each year with some attrition by the time they reach their senior year when this course will be offered.

5.10 Proposed method of staffing: Current staff should be able to meet the current needs.

5.11 Instructional technology resources: Current resources are adequate

5.12 Library resources: Current resources are adequate

Section 6: Proposed term for implementation: Fall 2020

Section 7: Supplemental Documentation (Optional): If needed, append any supplemental documentation

1. Identification of course:

- 1.1 Current course prefix (subject area) and number: SPED 425
- 1.2 Course title: LBD Language Interventions: Strategies and Materials
- 1.3 Credit hours: 3

2. Proposed course credit hours: 4

3. Rationale for the revision of course credit hours: This course contains both a classroom and clinical component. The clinical component requires students to deliver one-on-one instruction twice weekly (45 min. per session) for the entire semester. Therefore, to adequately include the needed content with the intensive clinical component requires the 3,000 minutes allotted for a 4-credit course. The course content and standards remain the same; however, student hours required to complete this course exceeds three credits and is more representative of a four credit course.

Proposal to Revise a program: Special Education/Elementary Education Major College of Education and Behavioral Sciences
Department/Unit: School of Teacher Education

Section 1: Proponent Contact Information

1.1 Name/Title: Susan Keeseey, Associate Professor Special Education

1.2 Email address: susan.keeseey@wku.edu

1.3 Phone #: 270-745-5414

Section 2: Program Information

2.14 Current Program reference number: 5003

2.15 Current Program title: Special Education: Learning and Behavioral Disorders and Elementary Education Dual Certification Program

2.16 Current total number of credits required in the program: 128

Section 3: Proposed program revisions and rationales

3.1 Remove PSY 100, LME 318, LME 448, HIST 456, ELED 365, SPED 424.

With the addition of the Core courses, a five-course required sequence for all education majors, the opportunity for program revisions allowed for realignment of standards and course offerings. Careful consideration focused on providing a quality program that still allowed for graduation within four years.

PSY 100 is no longer a prerequisite but can be taken as a Colonnade course.

Content from LME 318 and LME 448 will be integrated within the new STE themes. LME 448 is now available as a Colonnade course and will be encouraged to complete as such. HIST 456 is replaced with HIST 240 or 241 allowing for additional content in US History, an area of difficulty in Praxis completion. ELED 365 is now cross listed with SPED 340 allowing for more collaboration and shared content between SPED and ELED programs. Some of the content and standards targeted in SPED 424 will be covered in the new Core course, EDU 350, and the remaining coursework and standards will be dispersed in the remaining SPED courses.

3.2 Add EDU 260, EDU 350, EDU 360, HIST 240 or 241, ELED 345, and SPED 346. The addition of a 15 hour Core provides a consistent foundational base across all STE undergraduate teaching programs and allows more flexibility for students to determine which certification and level they feel most passionate to teach. EDU 260, EDU 350, and EDU 360 are all Core courses (the remaining six hours are courses already in this program). The option of HIST 240 or 241 allows for more instruction in US History (see 3.1). ELED 345 provides the foundation for elementary teaching and maintains the same percentage of elementary education coursework as the current program. SPED 346 is a new course added to the program to provide greater emphasis in middle/high school special education instruction, an area of need as suggested by program alumni.

3.3 Revise SPED 345. To strengthen the ability of program graduates to effectively teach at the middle/high school level, SPED 345 will be split into two courses. Objectives remain the same with additional content and clinical experience in the areas of math and language arts at the secondary level. SPED 345 focuses on language arts methods for students with disabilities and SPED 346 (see 3.2) focuses on math instruction for the same population.

3.4 Change credit hours for SPED 425 and EDU 489. Currently SPED 425 is a 3 credit course including both a classroom and clinical component. The student hours required to complete this course more closely resembles a 4 credit course than a 3 credit course. EDU 489 is part of multiple programs in STE. Moving it to a variable credit hour course of either 2 or 3 credits allows more flexibility for programs to choose the appropriate credit hours for their program. Two credits is more representative of the course requirements for this program.

3.5 Change course title for SPED 480. The program revisions include greater emphasis on collaboration and inclusion for special populations to more closely mirror current practices in today's classrooms. Also, current practice emphasizes data-driven decision making. Therefore, this title change more closely explains the course content to reflect the students' knowledge of these practices.

Section 4: Consultations

Do any of the proposed revisions in section 3 above involve or in any other way impact other departments/units? YES NO

If YES list those revisions here, and indicate whether the consultations have occurred.

4.1 Remove PSY 100, LME 318, LME 448, HIST 456. Psychology faculty were part of the Core development beginning in Fall, 2018 and agreed to remove the PSY 100 prerequisite. The School of Teacher Education was notified of changes at the fall retreat on 8/21/19. The STE Department Head, Blair Thompson, along with program faculty met with the History department and reached mutual agreement on the course changes in early September, 2019.

4.2 Add HIST 240 or 241. (See 3.1).

Proposal to Revise a program: Interdisciplinary Early Childhood Education
College of Education
Department/Unit: School of Teacher Education

Section 1: Proponent Contact Information

- 1.1 Name/Title: Sylvia Dietrich, Professor IECE
- 1.2 Email address: Sylvia.dietrich@wku.edu
- 1.3 Phone # 270-245-5414

Section 2: Program Information

- 2.1 Current Program reference number: 526
- 2.2 Current Program title: Bachelor of Science in Interdisciplinary Early Childhood Education
- 2.3 Current total number of credits required in the program:120

Section 3: Proposed program revisions and rationales

- 3.6 Remove FACS 192, FACS 295, FACS 336, IECE 320, IECE 325, SPED 330, SPED 419, SPED 422, SPED 432: A critical analysis of learning outcomes and standards in the IECE program was conducted and yielded duplication in several areas. Additionally, the creation and addition of the 15 hours of core education courses allows the program the opportunity to realign outcomes and strengthen program alignment to standards.
- 3.7 Add EDU 250, EDU 260, EDU 350, EDU 360, and PSY 310. These courses comprise the educational core that will be common across all education programs and will allow students more flexibility in finding a program home as they ascertain level of teaching and certification where they feel most comfortable and successful. The addition of these core courses also incorporates objectives and outcomes addressed in courses discussed in section 3.1.
- 3.8 Add the TESOL Minor to the Program: Early Childhood Education and TESOL have for the past several years been on the Critical Teacher Shortage Area List at both the state and national levels. Incorporating the TESOL minor into the IECE B.S. program will generate highly qualified early childhood educators that can meet the needs of the increasing number of English Language Learners enrolled in our public preschools and kindergarten classrooms. Students will matriculate with a major in Interdisciplinary Early Childhood Education preparing them for certification in IECE B-5, a minor in TESOL and preparing them for an endorsement in TESOL. Courses to be included are ENG 302, ENG 407, ENG 469, ENG 470, ENG 471 and ENG 408. These 19 hours of coursework comprise the mandatory classes for the minor in TESOL and will prepare candidates to meet requirements to be recommended for an endorsement in TESOL.
- 3.9 Increase hours in IECE 421 to 4 and increase hours in IECE 422 to 5. These classes are advanced methods classes and the students are engaged in extensive clinical work in local community agencies and schools with children and families. The increase in hours more accurately reflects the time spend both in instruction and in the clinical settings.
- 3.10 Decrease hours in EDU 489 from 3 to 2 hours. EDU 489 is offered for variable credit from 2 – 3 credit hours. The work products and allocated course time for IECE students aligns with the load of a 2-credit hour course.

Section 4: Consultations

Do any of the proposed revisions in section 3 above involve or in any other way impact other departments/units? YES NO

If YES, identify those revisions here, referring to them by the numbers assigned in section 3 above, and for each, indicate who in the affected department/unit was consulted, and the date of that consultation:

3.1 Remove FACS 192, FACS 295 and FACS 296. Department Head (Travis Wilson) was notified on 9/8/19 via email that IECE BS majors would no longer be required to take FACS 192, 295 or 296. Meeting with Blair Thompson, D'Lee Babb, and Sylvia Dietrich to discuss deletion of FACS courses 9/24/19. D'Lee sought clarification as to whether or not new curriculum courses were being proposed to replace the FACS courses. It was explained no new curriculum courses are being proposed and it was shared that FACS faculty were supportive of the proposed changes.

3.2 Remove SPED 330, SPED 419, SPED 422, SPED 432. The School of Teacher Education was notified of changes at the fall retreat held on 8/21/19

3.3. Series of communications and meetings between Alex Poole (program coordinator TESOL minor) and Sylvia Dietrich (Program Coordinator IECE) occurred throughout the summer of 2019. Communique from Dean Murphy to Dean Snyder 8/18/19. All parties involved are very excited about the opportunity.

1. Identification of course:

- 1.15 Current course prefix (subject area) and number: ID 465
- 1.16 Course title: Analysis and Design of Training

2. Revise course title:

- 2.1 Current course title: Analysis and Design of Training
- 2.2 Proposed course title: Instructional Strategies and Technology Integration
- 2.3 Proposed abbreviated title: Instr Strategies & Tech Integ
- 2.4 Rationale for revision of course title: We would like to emphasize that ID 465 will cover both instructional strategies and technologies that could be incorporated into training and other educational settings. Changing the course title will help students understand the focus of the course.

3. Revise course number:

- 3.1 Current course number:
- 3.2 Proposed course number: N/A
- 3.3 Rationale for revision of course number: N/A

4. Revise course prerequisites/corequisites/special requirements:

- 4.1 Current prerequisites/corequisites/special requirements: junior standing or instructor approval; AND prerequisites/corequisites: ID 460
- 4.2 Proposed prerequisites/corequisites/special requirements: No prerequisites/corequisites
- 4.3 Rationale for revision of course prerequisites/corequisites/special requirements: We would like to provide more flexibility for the students to take the courses in the program. Considering the course design in the program, removing the prerequisites in ID 465 should not affect their chance of succeeding in the program.
- 4.4 Effect on completion of major/minor sequence: It will provide more flexibility for students to take courses in the program.

5. Revise course catalog listing:

- 1.1 Name/Title: Xiaoxia “Silvie” Huang, Associate Professor
- 1.2 Email address: Xiaoxia.huang@wku.edu
- 1.3 Phone #: 270-745-4322

Section 2: Program Information

- 2.17 Classification of Instructional Program (CIP) reference number: 1725
- 2.18 Current Program title: Interactive Training Design
- 2.19 Current total number of credits required in the program: 12

Section 3: Proposed program revisions and rationales

- 3.5 Revision to Program Title: Program title will be changed to Interactive Training and Leadership. The reason for the change is to incorporate leadership knowledge and skills in the program as desired outcomes for students to develop. Leadership competencies accompanied with training competencies will greatly enhance students’ potential in this competitive job market when students graduate from the program.
- 3.6 Revision to Credit Hours: Program credit hours will be changed from 12 to 15 due to the addition of two courses in Organizational Leadership and suspension of ID 475.
- 3.7 Course Addition: LEAD 300 Leadership Theory and Application will be added to the program. This course will help students gain competencies in leadership concepts, theories, and models that will guide the process of their training and instruction.
- 3.8 Course Addition: LEAD 400 Practicum in Leadership will be added to the program. This course will allow students to apply leadership skills in directing an activity in any training setting.
- 3.9 Course Deletion: ID 475 Interactive Multimedia for Training will be suspended from the program.
- 3.10 Revision to Course Title: ID 460 course title will be changed from Introduction to Instructional Design to Teaching and Learning Design to align more with the course focus.
- 3.11 Revision to Course Title: ID 465 course title will be changed from Analysis and Design of Training to Instructional Strategies and Technology Integration to align more with the course focus.

- 3.12 Revision to Course Title: ID 470 course title will be changed from Development and Evaluation of Training to Training and Teaching Practicum to align more with the course focus.

Section 4: Consultations: The Instructional Design program faculty have met with Dr. John Baker, Coordinator of the Organizational Leadership program, and we have discussed the changes as listed in Section 3. All changes are mutually agreed upon by the faculty in the two programs involved.

Section 7: Required Appendices: Current & proposed program descriptions:

7.1 Current Program Descriptions

~~Interactive Training Design~~ Certificate Program

Coordinator: X. Huang
Reference Number: 1725
Minimum Hours for Certificate: 12

The instructional design process involves analyzing learning and performance needs and designing, developing, implementing, evaluating, and managing instructional and non-instructional solutions to improve performance in various settings. This 12-hour program will prepare students to analyze learners, learning contexts and skills, and design learning activities. Students will learn to evaluate those learning activities and to revise training activities. Students will acquire skills to develop multimedia training modules.

The program prepares and equips practitioners and students in training development. This is a skill needed in any topic, discipline, or workplace setting. Every business, government agency, nonprofit organization, industry, or educational institution offers training for its employees. This program prepares students to develop those training modules or activities, deliver that training, and evaluate the training.

Examples encompass print and electronic elements that may include instructional videos, online instructional activities, user manuals for instructors, instruction manuals for commercial products, teaching manual, professional development curricula, multimedia instructional units, training packs for trainers, instructional modules for vocational/technical courses, instructional modules for classroom instruction, and teaching and training aids in print or electronic formats. These skills make student more employable after completion of this program.

Students who successfully complete the certificate program will possess the following competencies and learning outcomes:

- Identify the steps, subordinate skills and entry behaviors and knowledge required to accomplish an instructional goal and correlated performance objectives.
- Produce an instructional system design process that is tailored to the education and training requirements of a specific organization or problem.
- Design a training module for a specific organization or problem to include context and learner analysis, write objectives and test items, prepare instructional strategies, and revise training module based on subject matter expert feedback.
- Apply principles and strategies of multimedia design, interface design, and visual design to evaluating existing and creating new multimedia products in an instructional design setting.
- Design, develop and evaluate a multimedia module using appropriate software application in training settings.

Admission Requirements: Minimum requirements for acceptance into the program are:

- High school diploma or equivalent
- Application and fee: Students seeking a certificate program must submit an online application with Undergraduate Admissions. The completed form must be submitted along with a one-time application fee of $40 (non-refundable)
- Transcript Record: Graduates/Transfers of accredited institutions other than WKU must submit an official transcript from that institution.

Certificate Requirements: ID 460, ID 465, ID 470, and ID 475. (12 hours)

7.2. Proposed Program Descriptions

Interactive Training and Leadership Certificate Program

Coordinator: X. Huang

Reference Number: 1725

Minimum Hours for Certificate: 15

The instructional design process involves analyzing learning and performance needs and designing, developing, implementing, evaluating, and managing instructional and non-instructional solutions to improve performance in various settings. In addition, leadership skills play an important role in the instructional design process. These skills enable instructional designers to become more effective change agents in order to positively impact their workplaces utilizing educational programs or interventions. This 15-hour program will prepare students to analyze learners, learning contexts and skills, design learning activities, and utilize leadership skills to broaden the impacts of educational programs or interventions. Students will learn to evaluate those learning activities and to revise training activities. Students will acquire skills to develop multimedia training modules and lead the process of designing, developing, and evaluating an educational product.

The program prepares and equips practitioners and students in training development. This is a skill needed in any topic, discipline, or workplace setting. Every business, government agency, nonprofit organization, industry, or educational institution offers training for its employees. This program prepares students to develop those training modules or activities, deliver that training, evaluate the training, and take a leadership role in the process.

Examples encompass print and electronic elements that may include instructional videos, online instructional activities, user manuals for instructors, instruction manuals for commercial products, teaching manual, professional development curricula, multimedia instructional units, training packs for trainers, instructional modules for vocational/technical courses, instructional modules for classroom instruction, and teaching and training aids in print or electronic formats. These skills make student more employable after completion of this program, especially with the addition of leadership skills to ensure they are capable of leading an instructional design process.

Students who successfully complete the certificate program will possess the following competencies and learning outcomes:

- Identify the steps, subordinate skills and entry behaviors and knowledge required to accomplish an instructional goal and correlated performance objectives.
- Produce an instructional system design process that is tailored to the education and training requirements of a specific organization or problem.
- Design a training module for a specific organization or problem to include context and learner analysis, write objectives and test items, prepare instructional strategies, and revise training module based on subject matter expert feedback.

- Apply principles and strategies of multimedia design, interface design, and visual design to evaluating existing and creating new multimedia products in an instructional design setting.
- Design, develop and evaluate a multimedia module using appropriate software application in training settings.
- Apply organizational leadership skills to lead an instructional design process.

7. Identification of proposed course:

- 1.17 Course prefix (subject area) and number: GEOG 492
- 1.18 Course title: Advanced Spatial Analysis
- 1.19 Credit Hours: 3

2. Proposed course title: Advanced Geospatial Analytics

3. Proposed abbreviated course title: Advanced Geospatial Analytics

4. Rationale for the revision of course title: In the GIS industry, geospatial analytics is becoming a more popular term due to the increased need to analyze of Big Data while the traditional term, spatial analysis, is often used in academics. We propose this change so that this course is more recognizable by potential employers of WKU students.

- 1.1 Course prefix (subject area) and number: GISC 423
- 1.2 Course title: Geoprocessing and GIS Applications
- 1.3 Credit Hours: 3

2. Proposed course title: GIS and Location Analytics

3. Proposed abbreviated course title: GIS & Location Analytics

4. Rationale for the revision of course title: This advanced GIS course mainly covers data and techniques important to applying GIS in locational analysis and urban applications. The original title is too general. Location analytics is a popular term in the industry where GIS data and methods are used to provide useful information for making decisions on locations, operations, logistics, and business geographics. We propose this title change, so the course can be more recognizable by potential employers of WKU students.

GISC 316 (4) Fundamentals of GIS	GISC 316 (4) Fundamentals of GIS
GISC 317 (4) GIS	GISC 317 (4) GIS
GISC 417 (3) GIS Analysis	GISC 417 (3) GIS Analysis
GISC 419 (3) GIS Programming	GISC 419 (3) GIS Programming

4. Rationale for the proposed program change:

Several existing courses outside of the Department of Geography and Geology provide a useful spatial component, such as Land Surveying (CE 160/161) and Principles of Wildlife Ecology and Management (BIOL 232). Geospatial technologies are utilized in a variety of fields and are becoming more prevalent across the curriculum. The results of research using these technologies are being reflected in myriad disciplines across higher education. Mapping is a dominant function of Geographic Information Systems (or GIS), which provides a visual interpretation of spatial data. Providing students the flexibility to substitute appropriate coursework should help encourage students from many other disciplines to enroll in the GIS Certificate program.

- 2.9 Prerequisite/Corequisites/Restrictions: For beginning college freshmen or transfer students with fewer than 36 semester hours of credit
- 2.10 Additional Enrollment Requirements:
- 2.11 Other Special Course Requirements:

- 2.13 Schedule Type: Seminar

Section 3: Description of proposed course

3.1 Course Content Summary:

The proposed course will be offered in seminar format; students will attend for one hour per week and learn about a variety of topics that are relevant to their orientation to the university as a psychological science student. Topics to be discussed include, but are not limited to:

- Professional training tracks within the psychological sciences
- Development of a personal plan for academic success
- Utilization of campus information technology
- Navigation of campus resources, from library to student organizations
- Financial considerations within discipline-specific training
- Student engagement through internships and research
- Identity development and maintenance as a professional in the psychological sciences
- Orientation to empirical research in the psychological sciences
- The clinical scientist and scientist-practitioner models
- Preparation for careers in psychological science

3.2 Learning Outcomes:

Upon successful completion of the course, students should be able to:

- Describe the different tracks of study within psychological science
- Construct a professional plan for pursuing future academic and career training in psychological science
- Identify appropriate professional behaviors for psychological scientists
- Recognize the resources available to them at the university and part of professional organizations that will facilitate training in the discipline
- Discuss examples of research activities that students pursue as undergraduates

3.3 Assessment/Evaluation:

Students will be assessed in the course using performance on a number of activities, class participation, seminar attendance, and/or summative assessments or project products that demonstrate meeting the learning objectives for the course.

Section 4: Rationale

4.1 Reason for developing this proposed course:

Courses like UC 175 provide academic programs with an opportunity to impart useful information to undergraduates that can benefit students as they transition to university experiences, including choosing academic tracks, considering future career directions, and utilizing campus resources to stay connected to the academic program. This is vital to the psychological sciences, as students have many possible tracks of study to select from while making progress toward a career and can be unsure about what track to select given their career aspirations. In PSYS 175, students network with department faculty to encourage involvement in faculty-mentored, student-centered research as well as involvement in professional activities that allow students to explore the tracks within the discipline. Additionally, students develop greater knowledge of various disciplines and careers in psychology and insight into how to pursue a particular career of interest.

4.2 Relationship to similar courses offered by other university departments/units:

- Do any other courses already being offered by other university departments/units share content with this proposed course? YES ~~NO~~
- Are any of the proposed pre/co-requisites for this course offered by another university department/unit? ~~YES~~ NO
- If the answer to both questions is NO, simply proceed to item 5.
- If the answer to either of those questions is YES, indicate here who in the affected departments/units was consulted, and the dates of those consultations:
No other department was consulted. Students who complete this course would not take a university experience course offered by other units.

Section 5: Projected Enrollments/Resources

5.1 How many students per section are expected to enroll in this proposed course? Approximately 20 to 25

5.2 How many sections of this course per academic year will be offered? 2-3

5.3 How many students per academic year are expected to enroll? 35-50

5.4 How were these projections calculated? Explain any supporting evidence/data you have for arriving at these projections. These projections are based on the number of incoming students who declare a major in Psychological Sciences. Existing enrollment in a temporary course version of PSYS 175 are consistent with these projections.

5.5 Proposed method of staffing: Existing faculty

5.6 Instructional technology resources: Existing resources are sufficient

5.7 Library resources: Will this proposed course require the use of library resources (books, journals, reference materials, audio-visual materials, electronic databases, etc.)? YES ~~NO~~

If YES, was a Library Resources Form submitted to the appropriate collection development librarian prior to consideration at the college curriculum level?
